

ABSTRACT

- 5 A fitness enabling and motivating service provides an online resource for assisting users in staying physically fit. The service enables users to locate well-matched partners for fitness activities. The service may facilitate communications between participants in fitness activities. The service may also enable each user to maintain an online schedule of fitness activities. Fitness activities may be scheduled and arranged via the server.